DID YOU KNOW?

World bank has proposed to stop wood burning completely in homes by 2030 in 3rd world countries, due to all the illnesses and deaths caused by wood smoke

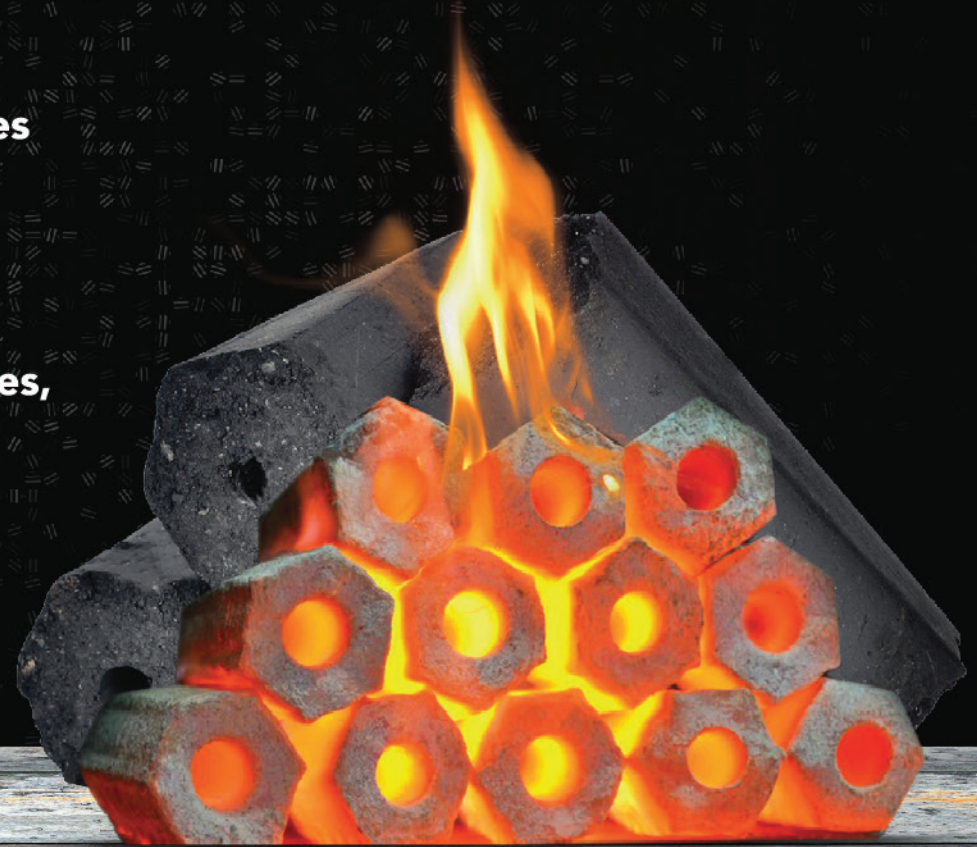

- Many common devices produce carbon monoxide, including cars, gas appliances, wood stoves and cigarettes, especially if used in a confined space.
- Carbon monoxide CO, unlike CO₂, is a bad poison. CO is produced by incomplete combustion, i.e. when there isn't enough oxygen to make CO₂, you get CO.
- Carbon dioxide CO₂ is present in the atmosphere today at 385 parts per million (by volume) or 0.039 percent. 50 years ago it was 280 parts per million. The increase is caused by people burning things, especially fuels – coal, oil, and natural gas, especially coal. Burning wood also puts CO₂ in the atmosphere.
